Are you ready for Summer Challenge Week Three?

This week values and virtues inspire our activities and art challenge

How do people show courage?

Everybody has a unique set of values that define our character and personality, that guide us in the way that we behave around the people we meet.

Courage is a celebrated value and most people show courage when they overcome fear, show compassion or support change. When social changes are taking place around the globe, we see how brave and valiant people can be.

What values are important to you?

How have you shown courage this year?

How can you pass your values on to others?

---

Let's look at artworks in our collection that focus on courage and bravery.

TURBAN HELMET

What good qualities do you think a knight or a Faris (knight in Arabic) would have?

Many Islamic weapons and armour owned by knights were decorated with Qur'anic inscriptions. The writing is a prayer to show the knight's connection to God and to ask for protection in battle.

HORSE ARMOUR

Why do people associate the ability to fight with bravery?

This set of armour from Istanbul is one of 17 Ottoman horse armours in the world today. It is made of metal plates linked together to give the horse and rider greater mobility on the battlefield.

THE GOOD SAMARITAN

Which moment in the story does this painting describe?

This painting tells the story of a man robbed and beaten while travelling from Jerusalem to Jericho. Two people did not stop to help, but a Samaritan saw the helpless man, treated his wounds and took care of him.
